HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"When I first had eczema it began on my face and neck in pimples and I thought I had the brown-tail itch. The skin was very sore and red and inflamed and the itching was so severe that I scratched and irritated the affected parts. I could not sleep and the trouble caused disfigurement for the time being. I had the trouble three months and I used Salve but it did not seem to do any good. Then I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and they helped me and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed completely." (Signed) Mrs. J. M. An Old Proverb.

It used to be proverbial that every man (and it is certainly no less true of woman) is either a fool or a physician at 40. This means that every intelligent person must learn so much about caring for his own health that by the time he is 40 years of age he can almost be reckoned as a physician.

Why, then, is there so much talk by doctors about "self-medication"? A woman can recognize all ordinary ailments without calling on a doctor. If they are ailments distinctive to her sex, she generally knows enough to use that greatest of all remedies for such ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and likewise she is familiar with the standard remedies for other diseases.

MOHR DEFENCE IN HARD FIGHT

Trying to Break Down the Prosecution's Witnesses

DIVORCE FIGHT BROUGHT UP

Doctor Intimate with Other Women, Wife Charged in the Petition

Providence, R. I., Jan. 25.—Almost at the point of resting its case, the prosecution yesterday introduced as evidence against Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, Cecil V. Brown and Henry H. Spellman, jointly on trial for the murder of the woman's husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, the divorce petition which was filed by Mrs. Mohr in February, 1914.

The case was to have come up on Sept. 1 last, the day after Doctor Mohr was killed.

The petition, as introduced yesterday, charged extreme cruelty by the husband. As amended on July 6, reference was made to Doctor Mohr's association with other women and charges were included that he was an excessive user of drugs. Separate maintenance for the wife, instead of absolute divorce, was asked in the amended bill.

The documents were brought into the records of the case through identification by Robert C. Root, assistant clerk of court. Newspaper reporters were the other witnesses at the forenoon session.

Miss Gertrude Stevenson, who testified Friday regarding the interview with the negroes in jail, in which one was quoted as saying: "Tell Mrs. Mohr we will stick by her if she will support us" was subjected to sharp cross examination.

Attorney William H. Lewis began his cross examination of Miss Gertrude Stevenson, a writer on a Boston newspaper, when court convened yesterday morning. Showing the witness a slip of paper on which was written a name, he asked her if she knew anyone by that name in Boston.

"I do," replied Miss Stevenson. Mr. Lewis tore up the piece of paper when the attorney general asked to see the memorandum. The court objected to this method of examining a witness.

Mr. Lewis offered to write out the name again, but the court refused to let him inquire in this way. Mr. Lewis then abandoned this method.

"Didn't you tell a young lady at a birthday party in Boston, Oct. 30, that you were going to Providence to testify against those niggers?" Miss Stevenson was asked.

"I never said such a thing," she replied.

She admitted that she was at the party and talked about the case. The person she had the conversation with, she said, was Miss Solita Salano of the Boston Traveler, whose birthday party it was.

Miss Stevenson denied that she exercised her "personal charms" to get the confidence of these boys, but admitted she thought it was "necessary to deceive the negroes" to get their story. She denied that she went down "to get a story that would connect Mrs. Mohr with the murder." She said she was after the truth.

Attorney General Rice openly accused Attorney Lewis of deliberately violating the ethics of the profession in his cross examination.

"Have you any prejudice against the defendants I represent?" asked Attorney Lewis.

"I have the greatest sympathy for them," answered Miss Stevenson.

"Haven't you written a serial story on 'The Birth of a Nation' for the Boston Journal?"

The objection of this question was sustained.

"And didn't you say in that story that the niggers were shown up as they really are?"

"No sir," replied Miss Stevenson, before the attorney general's objection could be ruled upon.

On re-direct examination Miss Stevenson was asked if Brown, Spellman and Healis said anything about the disposition of their guns.

"Yes, I asked them how they were going to get out of the fact that they had told Chief Robbins what they had done with the revolvers, and they said, 'Oh, that won't amount to anything, we can say we told the chief that just to agree with him.'"

The alleged alibi that Brown is claimed to have given to Miss Stevenson to give to his sister was introduced in evidence. It reads as follows:

"Monday, August 30 8:15, left Newport at 4 p. m., on my motorcycle. Went through Warren at 5:20 p. m., arrived at Providence, R. I., about 6 p. m. Stayed in Providence all night and all next day, which was August 31, 8:15 in the evening. At 9:15 p. m., from my sister's home, 25 Gadsden street, Providence, R. I., went to Riverside to call on some friends, but did not see them. Left Riverside about 10:20 p. m.; went into Providence by way of Red Bridge, stopping at 68 Meeting street, Providence, R. I."

T. E. Hedlund, a Boston newspaperman, gave testimony corroborative of that of Miss Stevenson relative to the interviews obtained from the negroes in the Bristol jail.

PEACE MOVE A RUSE ONLY

Negotiations with Austria Explained by Montenegro

MADE NECESSARY BY LOVCEN CAPTURE

Gave Montenegrins Week to Effect Retreat—Nicholas in Rome

London, Jan. 25.—Premier Mouchkovich of Montenegro, who declared on his arrival at Brindisi that King Nicholas has prepared documents justifying the conduct of himself and his ministers in regard to peace negotiations with Austria, is quoted in a dispatch from Brindisi to the Stefani news agency as saying that Montenegro arranged a truce with Austria as a ruse, to enable her to gain time. Such a step was necessary after the capture of Mount Lovcen by the Austrians, the premier is reported to have said, and it gave the Montenegrins a week's time to prepare the retreat into Albania, in an effort to effect a junction with the Serbians and defend Scutari.

King Nicholas, accompanied by his son, Prince Peter, and by three officers of his suite, arrived in Rome Sunday, from Brindisi, in the royal train, which had been put at his disposal to emphasize the purpose of the Italian government in wishing to do him honor. King Nicholas, who was dressed in the national costume, with black cap, white jacket and red sash, looked very worn as a result of his hurried trip on horseback from Podgoritz to the sea and the consequent passage and the trip from Brindisi. King Victor Emmanuel met the king at the Termini terminal station, where an immense crowd had gathered to applaud the Montenegrin sovereign. They proceeded in automobile to the Villa Savoia, where Queen Helena, daughter of King Nicholas, awaited him with her four children. The exiled monarch left Rome at 9 o'clock Sunday night to join his wife and two daughters in Lyons.

Topics of the Home and Household.

When washing fine chinaware, place two Turkish towels, one crossing the other, in the dishpan before filling it with hot water. Put only a dish or two in the pan at a time. Chinaware will not be likely to get nicked if this plan is followed.

Cover your bedsprings with a slip of unbleached muslin or ticking, sewing tapes to each corner to keep it tied on firmly. This will protect your mattress from iron rust, wear and tear, can be taken off and shaken every week and washed clean when soiled.

Using colored thread for basting is a good idea, especially on white or light material. Light blue, pink or violet thread is usually on hand, and children will be willing to help you by taking out the basting when they are done in colored thread. Only red thread should be avoided, as a fragment of it overlooked may leave a mark when the garment is laundered.

The parrot motif in embroidery is very popular, being largely developed in cross-stitch for pillows, scarfs, etc. The vogue of this motif is largely due to the brilliant colors which can be displayed to such good advantage, says the Detroit Free Press. The newest development of the parrot motif is in applique embroidery. This is especially nice for a pillow or scarf intended for use in the library or den. Green silk is used for the parrot, and cream linen for the background. The edges of the silk are turned in and overcast to the ground of linen, and the marking of the feathers is done in brilliant colors on the green silk, using the over-lap outline stitch. Yellow silk is used for the bill. The perch, on which the parrot rests, is done in heavy chain stitch.

Salads and Dressing.

Delicious Salad Dressing—One cupful of boiling water; one-quarter of a cupful of vinegar and lemon juice mixed. When this mixture boils again stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed to a paste with two tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Stir and cook for five minutes, until the flour is well cooked. Remove from the stove, pour over the well-beaten yolks of two eggs, stir and mix thoroughly, then put away to cool, stirring occasionally. When cool, but not absolutely cold, add one cupful of olive oil. Add about one-quarter of a cupful at a time, beating with a wire whisk or egg-beater to blend thoroughly. When the last of the oil is added it should be thick and smooth. Mix in a saucer one-half a teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne, and if liked one-half a teaspoonful of mustard. Add a little of the salad dressing and stir to a smooth paste, then stir the mixture into the remainder of the dressing. If put away covered in a glass jar it will keep a long while in a cool place. Whipped cream may be added at the time of using it if desired. The dressing may on rare occasions look a little curdled after standing, with a little oil showing on top. In that case pouring off the surplus oil and a vigorous beating will make it beautifully smooth again. But this seldom occurs if the directions are carefully followed.

Below are a few good salads in which this dressing may be used. Grapefruit Salad—A very delicious and beautiful salad is made by using the pulp of a grapefruit. This is placed by one-half a cupful of boiling water, add one-half a cupful of vinegar, the juice of one-half a lemon, one-half a cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt. Strain and cool. When beginning to stiffen, stir and add very carefully one cupful of cold cream, one cupful of cooked peas and one-half a cupful of cooked beets.

Mashed Potato Salad—One pint of warm mashed potato, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley (or one of parsley and one of chives if you can obtain them), one-half a teaspoonful of onion juice if chives are not used, one tablespoonful of chopped pinolles. Add the salad dressing to moisten slightly, and salt and pepper if necessary. Butter a small timbale mold, put in a slice of hard-boiled egg, then fill with the potato. Press down lightly, then turn gently from the mold. Serve these little molds in a lettuce cup with a ring of the dressing around them. Garnish with parsley and whole pinolles.

ent in dice. Pour into a mold and serve with a garnish of curled celery, stars of salad dressing and a wreath of finely chopped beets.

Wintthrop Salad—Place a slice of canned pineapple on tender lettuce leaves, cover with a layer of yellow cream cheese, then a spoonful of salad dressing, and sprinkle the whole with coarsely chopped peanuts.

Mock Lobster Salad—Use one pound of cold boiled or baked halibut, also one can of the best steak salmon, which has been rinsed with boiling water, drained and cooled. Pick the fish into large flakes with a silver fork. Use the plain dressing or add one-half its bulk of whipped cream. Mix carefully so as not to break the flakes. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with stars cut from a can of pinolles and a circle of capers.

Cabbage and Shrimp Salad—Shave one pint of cabbage very fine, let stand in cold water until crisp, then drain and dry thoroughly. Wash and remove the intestinal cords from one can of shrimp. Save a few for a garnish, then break the rest in small pieces; mix with the cabbage and add salad dressing to moisten. Serve in a mound garnished with the shrimp and parsley.

Mashed Potato Salad—One pint of warm mashed potato, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley (or one of parsley and one of chives if you can obtain them), one-half a teaspoonful of onion juice if chives are not used, one tablespoonful of chopped pinolles. Add the salad dressing to moisten slightly, and salt and pepper if necessary. Butter a small timbale mold, put in a slice of hard-boiled egg, then fill with the potato. Press down lightly, then turn gently from the mold. Serve these little molds in a lettuce cup with a ring of the dressing around them. Garnish with parsley and whole pinolles.
